You are a program manager reviewing portfolio performance data. You see that many issues are assigned to a "responsible manager."

What does "responsible manager" mean with Primavera P6 EPPM?

- A. The person responsible for resolving the issue
- B. the manager to which the issue has been assigned
- C. The element from the OBS associated with the issue
- D. The person who identified the issue

Answer: C

Explanation:

Your organization, from top-level personnel down through all levels. You can associate the responsible managers with their areas of the EPS- either nodes or individual projects. When you associate a responsible manager with an EPS node, any projects you add to that branch of the EPS are assigned that manager element by default.

Note: Note: When you associate a responsible manager with an EPS Node, any projects you add to that branch of the EPS are assigned that manager element by default. When you create a user, you have to give them Responsible Manager assignments in order for them to see projects. Your EPS and your OBS need to have a one-to-one relationship. If you give a user a Responsible Manager assignment (OBS) that is not tied to an EPS, Project or WBS level, they will not see any projects when they log into the Primavera Client application or the Web Application.
