NEW QUESTION: 1

Which of the following is a security best practice for password management?

- A. Passwords should be stored in a secure location.
- B. Passwords should be shared with trusted individuals.
- C. Passwords should be written down and stored in a secure location.
- D. Passwords should be stored in a secure location and not shared.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 2

A recent review of accounts on various systems has found that after employees' passwords are required to change they are recycling the same password as before. Which of the following policies should be enforced to prevent this from happening? (Select TWO).

- A. Reverse encryption
- B. Password history
- C. Password expiration
- D. Password complexity
- E. Account lockouts
- F. Minimum password age

Answer: B, F

Explanation:

E: Password history determines the number of previous passwords that cannot be used when a user changes his password. For example, a password history value of 5 would disallow a user from changing his password to any of his previous 5 passwords.

B: When a user is forced to change his password due to a maximum password age period expiring, he could change his password to a previously used password. Or if a password history value of 5 is configured, the user could change his password six times to cycle back round to his original password. This is where the minimum password age comes in. This is the period that a password must be used for. For example, a minimum password age of 30 would determine that when a user changes his password, he must continue to use the same password for at least 30 days.
